"I need a partner to be complete."

✦ ✦ ✦

Where it often comes from

Songs, movies, and even sermons can suggest that one is half a person until paired up. After a breakup or in a long single season, loneliness can feel like proof. Some of us have also learned to look to a partner to fill emptiness only God can fill, and that can put an impossible burden on any relationship.

What Scripture teaches

Paul writes of Christ, "You have been made complete in Christ, who is the head over every ruler and authority." He says that marriage and singleness are both gifts. The psalmist says, "You have made known to me the path of life; You will fill me with joy in Your presence." And God promises, "My God will supply all your needs according to His glorious riches in Christ Jesus." A partner can be a wonderful gift, but no person can complete us. If we expect them to, we set both of us up to be disappointed.

> "And you have been made complete in Christ, who is the head over every ruler and authority" (Colossians 2:10).

> "I wish that all men were as I am. But each man has his own gift from God; one has this gift, another has that" (1 Corinthians 7:7).

> "You have made known to me the path of life; You will fill me with joy in Your presence, with eternal pleasures at Your right hand" (Psalm 16:11).

> "And my God will supply all your needs according to His glorious riches in Christ Jesus" (Philippians 4:19).

> "For your husband is your Maker— the LORD of Hosts is His name— the Holy One of Israel is your Redeemer; He is called the God of all the earth" (Isaiah 54:5).

Common self-statements

- I am only half a person alone.
- I will not be happy until I have someone.
- I cannot cope on my own.
- A partner would fix my emptiness.
- Being single is a lesser life.
- I need someone to be whole.

Common logical errors

- All-or-nothing thinking: Believing I am either complete with a partner or incomplete without.
- Magical thinking: Believing a partner will solve my emptiness.
- Emotional reasoning: Feeling lonely and concluding that I am incomplete.
- Should statements: Insisting that I should be partnered by now.

Challenging questions

- What do I hope a partner would give me, and what does Scripture say about where those needs are met?

- Have I seen partnered people who are still unfulfilled?
- What strengths do I have that make me whole as I am?
- What would it look like to be content and open at the same time?
- What does being complete in Christ mean for me?
- How can I enjoy life and relationships now?

Truth summary

> I am complete in Christ. A partner would be a gift, not a missing piece. I can enjoy my life, build deep friendships, and be open to love without making any person responsible for making me whole.

5 My practice plan

Everyone does the first four. Then pick one or two extra tools.

EVERYONE DOES THESE

- [ ] Make my Truth Card (below). Carry it and read it at least three times a day.
- [ ] Memorize my Scripture from Step 4.
- [ ] Listen to one song each day from "Songs that speak truth to this belief" on my card, and fill in my song journal (below).
- [ ] Set reminders to silently repeat my truth. Check one or more:
  - ☐ A buzz: my watch or phone vibrates every _____ minutes
  - ☐ An everyday event: every time I _____
  - ☐ A visual reminder: something I will see often, such as a sticky note on my mirror, my truth as the background picture on my phone, or a note on my car dashboard.

PICK ONE OR TWO THAT FIT ME

- [ ] Whole in Christ: Each week, note one time you felt content or full without a partner.
- [ ] My name in Scripture: Write a personal reminder based on my verse and read it aloud. Keep this application separate from the Bible quotation.

  For example, Colossians 2:10 becomes: "Sarah can write: "I have been made complete in Christ.""
- [ ] Gratitude journal: Each night, write three things I thank God for.
- [ ] Truth recording: Record my own voice reading my Truth Card and verse, and listen in the car or on a walk.
- [ ] Reading: The "Loneliness" topic in Pearls.
- [ ] Listening: The Overcoming Depression audio by Dr. Brian Campbell. Tap to play.

6 My action step this week

Do one thing that tests the lie in real life.

Choose steps you can do safely. If there is violence, coercion, or fear of retaliation, seek private professional support before trying anything with the other person. In an emergency call 911.

- [ ] List what you hope for. Write what you want a partner to provide.
- [ ] Notice other sources. Beside each, write how God and friends can meet it.
- [ ] Build deep friendships. Invest in a few close relationships.
- [ ] Pray Psalm 16:11. Ask God to fill you with joy.
