INTERPERSONAL FALSE BELIEF #46 · GRIEF AND LOSS

“I'll never get over losing them.”

Where it often comes from

Grief can feel endless, especially in the first year or after a sudden or traumatic loss. Well-meaning people may say “time heals” or “you should be over this,” and when it does not feel true, we conclude that something is wrong with us or that the pain is permanent.

What Scripture teaches

Jesus said, “Blessed are those who mourn, for they will be comforted.” The psalmist says, “Weeping may stay the night, but joy comes in the morning,” and “The LORD is near to the brokenhearted.” Revelation promises, “He will wipe away every tear from their eyes.” Paul calls God “the God of all comfort, who comforts us in all our troubles.” Grief does not have a deadline, and many people never stop missing the one they lost. But the intensity softens, and joy and love can live alongside loss.

> “For His anger is fleeting, but His favor lasts a lifetime. Weeping may stay the night, but joy comes in the morning” (Psalm 30:5).

Also see

> “Blessed are those who mourn, for they will be comforted” (Matthew 5:4).

> “The LORD is near to the brokenhearted; He saves the contrite in spirit” (Psalm 34:18).

> “‘He will wipe away every tear from their eyes,’ and there will be no more death or mourning or crying or pain, for the former things have passed away” (Revelation 21:4).

> “Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of compassion and the God of all comfort, who comforts us in all our troubles, so that we can comfort those in any trouble with the comfort we ourselves have received from God” (2 Corinthians 1:3–4).

Common self-statements

- The pain will never lessen.
- I will always feel like this.
- I cannot go on without them.
- Life will never be good again.
- Something is wrong with me for still hurting.
- I will never be happy again.

Common logical errors

- Fortune telling: Predicting that the pain will never ease.
- All-or-nothing thinking: Believing I must either be over it or be in agony.
- Should statements: Insisting that I should be over it by now.
- Emotional reasoning: Feeling hopeless and concluding that things are hopeless.

Challenging questions

- How has my grief changed since the first days, even slightly?

- What do I need right now: rest, company, tears, or help with practical tasks?
- What are healthy ways I can honor my loved one?
- What does it mean to “get over” someone I loved?
- How might God’s comfort come through people around me?
- Who can I talk to about how heavy this is?

Truth summary

> I may always miss the one I lost, but the pain will not stay at this intensity forever. I can mourn, be comforted, and carry my love for them with me. God is near to the brokenhearted, and joy can return alongside the loss.

Songs that speak truth to this belief

Just Be Held — Casting Crowns
God’s care remains when control, strength, or explanations run out.

The God Who Stays — Matthew West
God’s faithful presence challenges the expectation of rejection and abandonment.

He Knows — Jeremy Camp
Jesus understands suffering and invites people to bring their burdens to Him.

Softly and Tenderly — Kristyn Getty with Vince Gill, Ellie Holcomb and Sierra Hull
This older hymn pictures Christ’s gracious invitation to return rather than hide in shame.

Each morning ask: “If I truly believed God’s truth instead of this lie, how would I think, speak, and act today?”

My Plan for Replacing "I'll never get over losing them"

✦ ✦ ✦

Read through each section and check the one that fits you best. If none of them fit, write your own. One choice per section is enough. A truth you choose for yourself will stick better than one handed to you.

Name: _____ Date started: _____

1 How strongly do I believe the lie?

Rate it now so you can see your progress later.

"I'll never get over losing them." I believe this _____ % (0 = not at all, 100 = completely)

2 My best question

The one question I will ask myself every time the lie shows up.

- ☐ How has my grief changed?
- ☐ What do I need right now?
- ☐ How can I honor them?
- ☐ Who can I talk with?
- ☐ Where have I felt comfort?
- ☐ What does God promise?

My own question: _____

3 My replacement truth

The statement I will say to myself instead of the lie.

- ☐ Blessed are those who mourn.
- ☐ Weeping may stay the night, but joy comes in the morning.
- ☐ God is near to the brokenhearted.
- ☐ He will wipe away every tear.
- ☐ Grief has no deadline.
- ☐ Love and joy can coexist with loss.

In my own words: _____

4 My Scripture

The verse that speaks most directly to me. This is the one I will memorize.

- ☐ Psalm 30:5
  "For His anger is fleeting, but His favor lasts a lifetime. Weeping may stay the night, but joy comes in the morning."
- ☐ Matthew 5:4
  "Blessed are those who mourn, for they will be comforted."
- ☐ Revelation 21:4
  "'He will wipe away every tear from their eyes,' and there will be no more death or mourning or crying or pain, for the former things have passed away."

Practicing the Truth

5 My practice plan

Everyone does the first four. Then pick one or two extra tools.

EVERYONE DOES THESE

- [ ] Make my Truth Card (below). Carry it and read it at least three times a day.
- [ ] Memorize my Scripture from Step 4.
- [ ] Listen to one song each day from "Songs that speak truth to this belief" on my card, and fill in my song journal (below).
- [ ] Set reminders to silently repeat my truth. Check one or more:
  - ☐ A buzz: my watch or phone vibrates every _____ minutes
  - ☐ An everyday event: every time I _____
  - ☐ A visual reminder: something I will see often, such as a sticky note on my mirror, my truth as the background picture on my phone, or a note on my car dashboard.

PICK ONE OR TWO THAT FIT ME

- [ ] Comfort received: Each day, write one comfort you received and one memory you treasure.
- [ ] My name in Scripture: Write a personal reminder based on my verse and read it aloud. Keep this application separate from the Bible quotation.

  For example, Psalm 30:5 becomes: "Sarah can write: "Weeping may stay the night, but joy comes in the morning.""
- [ ] Gratitude journal: Each night, write three things I thank God for.
- [ ] Truth recording: Record my own voice reading my Truth Card and verse, and listen in the car or on a walk.
- [ ] Reading: The "Grief" topic in Pearls.
- [ ] Listening: The Overcoming Depression audio by Dr. Brian Campbell. Tap to play.

6 My action step this week

Do one thing that tests the lie in real life.

Choose steps you can do safely. If there is violence, coercion, or fear of retaliation, seek private professional support before trying anything with the other person. In an emergency call 911.

- [ ] Give grief room. Set aside time each day to remember and cry if you need to.
- [ ] Honor them. Do one thing in their memory, such as a visit, a gift, or a story.
- [ ] Find support. Join a grief group or talk with a pastor or counselor.
- [ ] Care for the basics. Sleep, eat, and move gently each day. If you have thoughts of ending your life, call or text 988 right away.
